

COMMUNICATIONS

FURTHER UPDATE ON NEW BULLETIN FORMAT

You may have read in the last bulletin, that the branch is introducing a new format for bulletins issued by branch officers. Each branch officer will now have a different coloured heading. For example, communications is blue.

All bulletins that are issued by the branch will now be stored on a single page on the website at www.lasunison.com/bulletins with the exception of station bulletins. (These are issued by individual reps and not the branch and generally are only relevant to that individual station or complex.)

A link to the bulletins page has been added to the top menu under News.

Once on that page, just click on the relevant link to see all the bulletins that have been issued by that branch officer. Please note that bulletins will not be stored on individual branch officer web pages. However, there will be a link added to these pages to take you to the bulletins page.

I hope that this will make communications between the branch and members a bit easier.

Rob Sydney
Communications Officer
